Choice Postsy.

Oh! Let me be your Boy Again.

[The following lines were suggested on hearing of the death of a young man of great worth, who, on the night of his death, laid his head in his mother's lap, and said: "Let me be your boy again, mother; let me be your little boy again; kiss me, dear mother." Continuing this strain of pure emotional sentiment for a few minutes, he suddenly rose, threw back his head, and died on the instant :

Roll back, ye years of youth's bright joys-Roll back, proud manhood's riper years; Roll back, e'en let my childish fears, Come to me with these pleasant toys; Walch whiled my happy hours away. When dawned my early childhood's days.

Steal o'er me once again, those dreams Of childhood's pure and holy love. Which lighted from the realms above, My path shone clear as limpld streams, Which sparkling in the noontide sun, My life reflected as they ran.

Kiss me, my mother dear, once more, Oh! let me be your boy again— Let me but hear that soft, sweet strain, And soothe my spirit as of yore; Now fold me in your loved embrace

Am I, dear mother, loved by thee, As well, as when in childhood's time My love was purely, fondly thine, I knelt in prayer beside thy knee And asked for mercy, grace and light To guide my youthful steps aligh:? He rose and stretched his hands towards heaven

From my sad soul each sorrow chase,

With upturned face—he gasped for breath, White on his brow the seal of death Wis fixed; the vital chord was riven, And his pure spirit rose above To the Angel world of light and love.

Thus do we see, through all life's way, That mystic chord—a normer's Love,
That mystic chord—a normer's Love,
Unclanging as the powers above,
Which points the soul to endless day—
That holy leve, which felt from birth.
That holy leve, which felt from birth. Still lives, when earth returns to earth

A Cross Woman.

The idea of a woman getting cross and ugly when things in the family do not run quite as smoothly as they should, is simply ridiculous. She makes herself an object of loathing and contempt whenever she is guilty of such nonsense. The Almighty has created her for a purpose entirely different to this insane and foolish indulgence in angry passions. He has made her beautiful and attractive in her person, endowed her with sensibilities and refinements of mind and manner which, when properly cultivated, lead to the elevation of the higher and holier feelings of our nature. Think of a being thus constituted getting cross on every trifling occasion -How she insults her Creator, and prostitutes those excellent qualities which the sterner sex do not possess, and which seem to be reserved by heaven for her alone. the day of sale will call on the undersigned. | Think of this, fair woman, whenever the devil tempts you thus to sin You may forfeit all within your grasp; worldly happiness, personal esteem, domestic felicity. that peace of mind which arises from a consciousness of duty well and faithfully performed, and what is more than all, you may forfeit the favor of your God.

She Wasn't a Heathen. Some gentlemen called upon an old woman and inquired if she bad a Bible. She was very angry at being asked such a question, and replied -"Do you think, gentlemen, that I am : heathen, that you ask me such a question? Run and fetch the Bible out of the drawer," she said to the little girl, "that I may aliex it to the gentlemen."

They desired that she would not take the trouble, but she insisted that they should "sec that she was not a beathen." Accordingly the Bible was brought, nicely cove red. On opening it, the old woman exclaimed:

"Well, how glad I am that you called and asked about the Bible! Here are my spectacles. I have been looking for them these three years, and did not know where to find them."

Dutch Cure for Drunkenness.

The following cure for drunkenness is practiced in Holland: "The patient is shut up in a room, and debarred all communication, except with his physician As often as he pleases, spirits-brandy, whiskey, gip. etc, are given him, but mixed with two thirds water; all other drinks, such as beer, coffee, wine, etc., are mingled with one third brandy. The various kinds, too, that are furnished him-bread, meat, etc 1-are all prepared with brandy, consequently the patient is in a state of continual intoxication. This lasts about firedays; at the end of that time he asks with entreaty for other nourishment, without his request being complied with, and not until his organs absolutely abhor alcohol. The cure is complete, and from that period the very smell

What is the reason that men never kiss each other, while the ladies waste a world of kisses on the feminine faces?" said a foolish gent to a lively girl the other day. The young lady answered, "Because the men have something better to kiss, and the women havn't." The gent "saw it" immediately.

The Honest Thief.

There once lived in St. Petersburg an aged man who, though poor, had always been noted for strict honor and integrity, and whose whole course of life was regular as clock work. Each morning he left his modest dwelling at precisely the same hour, passing through the old clothes market to his bureau, and after six hour's labor was accomplished, returned home by the selfsame route. His garments were shabby from long service, and the covering on his cap was worn to shreds. The urgent soli citations of his daughters finally induced him to replace the latter article; and see ing some of green color one day in a shop window, he went in and inquired the price. The shopman, however, refused to sell them, on the plea that they were already besnoken, and offered to show him others of a different hue; but the old man had set his heart on green "Well, then," said the man. "If you absolutely must have it, take it, and if needed I can finish another by to morrow to take its place."

The bargain was accordingly concluded. and the next day no small excitement was created by the appearance of the cap, which elicited from his colleagues smiling congra tulation upon his successful purchase. Two days afterward, the heat being intense in the bureau, he felt his pocket for his handkerchief, in order to wipe the per spiration from his face, and he drew forth to his great astonishment, one of the finest India foulard silk. He showed it to his colleague, and inquired if he had by mistake appropriated another person's property; but one and all disclaimed all knowledge of it, and agreed ununimously that it must be a surprise from one of his daugh-

He had been more punctual the room; he therefore determined to say some of them: nothing to them of his discovery, and as soon as the office hours were over he went directly to the chief of the police and solicited a private audience. He then produced the watch and purse, and related the history of the handkerchief After the chief had fully possessed himself of all the utes dressing. particulars, he said:

"It is very singular! Has nothing of the kind ever happened to you before?" "Never before last week."

"Have you made any change in your dress within that time?"

"Recollect!"

"Oh yes, certainly ! I bought a new cap "Tell me how and where you bought it." The old man told him everything connected with his purchase, upon which the chief laughed heartily, and exclaimed : "Poor, honest man that you are, you have become a member of a band of thieves! Do you not perseive? tisk of being arrested also? The old man went into a shop and purchased another covering for his head; but as he was about to tie up the cap in his hand kerchief in order to take it back to the police office, he found in the crown, to his nosmall surprise, a costly piece of lace. He hastened to deliver this fresh booty into the hands of the chief, who again burst into a peal of laughter when he beheld the despair. ing countenance of the honest theif.

The necessary measures were immediately aken. Two dozen detectives were made nequainted with the forms of the caps ; and simultaneously, at precisely the same hour. every possessor of the sign was placed in durance vile.

her lover. LIST .- The other evening a young man, addicted to sleep-walking, arose about twelve o'clock, dressed himself, took his guitar, slipped out of the back window, and stole stealthily down the street to the house of a young lady to whom he had been paying attentions. * He there mounted a hitching post and commenced singing and playing a beautiful air entitled "Midnight Dreamer." When about half way through he was rudely awakened by a pitcher of cold water being thrown over him from a window above. He got up, shook himself, and made his way home, inwardly cursing the infirmity which had caused him to make himself ridiculous, and resolved to oure himself of it .- Milwaukee Sentinel.

Early Fall Work. Have you ditching to be done? A well to be dug? A swamp bole to grub and clear up? A roof to be shingled or any such dry weather work to be done? Allow us to hist that now is the time to get reads for such labors. The days are getting shorter at both ends, by and by the raiss will come sousing down their cold buckets full giving the workmen wet feet and chapped bands to nurse and grumble over. A day now is worth two days late in the fall, in the quality and quantity of work done, besides the certainty of baving it done.

What Congress Demands of the South. The Amendment to the Constitution proposed by Congress as the basis of the readmission of the late rebellious States to representation in that budy is briefly as follows:

First—The first clause necures civil liberty to all citizens of the United States, whether pative born or naturalized; declaring that no State shall deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws, Can any nonest man oppose this?

Second -The second clause equalizes the parer of the white man in all the States. It prevents the representation in Congress by the disloyal whites of the Southern States of the negro population, and prevents the white man in Mississippi and South Carolina from casting two votes for President, to one east by the white man in Maryland or Pennsylvania. Our any honest white man dispute the justice of this?

Third-The third clause excludes from holding office, either under the United States or any State, all persons who, as officers of the United States, or as executive, legislative or judicial officers of any State, have heretofore taken an eath to support the Constitution of the United States, and have engaged in mourrection against the same, or given aid or comfort to the enemies thereof, unless Congress by a two thirds vote shall remove such disability. - The ob-"iect of this is to exclude leading Rebels from office, and to place the control of the insurrectionary States in loyal hands. Who but a Rebel, and a leading Rebel, at that, can object to this proposition?

Fourth-The fourth clause guarantees the payment of the public debt, and of the pensions and bounties granted for services rendered in suppressing the rebellion-prohibits the assumption or payment of the Rebel debt, or for slaves emancipated. What loyal heart does not respond to this proposition as just and right?

Give Him a Chance.

The Shasta (California) Courier, edited by a loval Irish American, is not alraid of being outstripped by the negroes. He says: "If God has given the power to the negro to become the equal of or superior to the white man, just so sure will that superiority be recognized by all; and, in our opinion. he has not far to go to become the equal of those who are so tender footed in refusing equal chances to all in the race. The negro has been 'handicaped' long enough. Give him an equal chance, 'weight for age,' and n 'fair Beld.' We arn't afraid."

The Boston Pilot (Catholic) gives the following opinions:

"The black man has the same right to earn his bread on this earth where God , the father and maker of us all, bas placed him, as the white man has. He is made in the same image, and the blood of the God man was shed for him as well as for the more favored white man."

An Interesting Occasoin.

TRENTON, September 11 .- This morn-Jug a large number of the members of the New Jersey Legislature waited upon the adaughter of Governor Hamilton, of Texas. in her parlor at the American House, and in behalf of the loyal people of New Jersey tendered their thanks for her hero ic conduct in rescuing from Rebel hands the flag of the 4th New Jersey Volunteers, which had been captured by a Texan Rebel regi-ment in battle. Miss Hamilton carried the flag secreted in her riding habit many miles. and then hid it away until, at the close of the war, she could return it to the State autherities of New Jersey. The Speaker, on behalf of the Legislature, made a congratulatory speech, and was responded to by Governor Hamilton on behalf of his daughter. The members of the Legislature were then introduced to Miss Hamilton as they passed on the 4th Sabbath of September; and will

NOTICE. THE MODEL SEWING MACHINE.

(From the New York Herald.) Preminent among the mechanical triumphs of this most ingenious age, common honesty compels us to notice the Empire Sewing Machine, commonded as justly styled perfection itself. Useful as have been the various sewing nachines, from time to time presented to the public, each one of them has been cursed with some radical defect, which detracts from general utility. Warned by the experience of his predecessors, the inventor of the Empire Machine has produced an instrument, combining all the advantages for which others are vaunted, and obvisting every detect which can be attributed to them by the most fastidious critic. The Empire Machine is a marvellous combination of simplicity, economy and perfect workmanship, being durable, free from liabili-ty to get out of order, noiseless, and easy of operation. Its mechanical contrivances is such as to secure stability, freedom from accident, and accuracy as to workmanship. By the use of the patented shuttle and straight needle, it makes a stiten, which can neither tip ner ravel. while, at the same time, it can operate perfectly upon every species of material from leather to

from the finest to the coarsest number.
As the Empire Machinesis gradually supplanting its more antique rivals, no one in want of a useful instrument of this description, be he or she tailor, coachmaker, dressmaker er semestress, can do otherwise than secure on: of these economical and familiable macuuces, saited alike for family and manufacturing purposes. The office of the Empire Manufacturing Co. is at No 556 Broadway, New York City, where they are now supplying these Empire Machines at prices far below the real value of the instruments.—N. Y Herald
